

Scots Church Burial Ground Campbellfield

Pictures and data by Tony Lugton (Member A.I.G.S)
2007

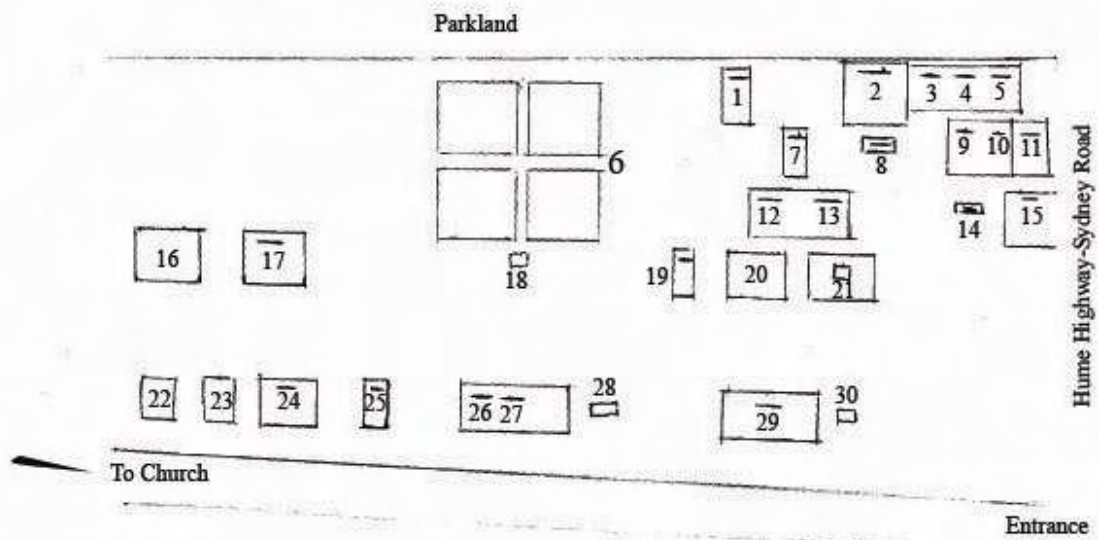

Scots church Campbellfield has always interested me and it became even more of interest when I took up genealogy and found many family members buried there or least worshiped at the church In its heyday from early 1840's -1900's. Many buried are Gaelic speaking Scots from Ross Shire but again like so many old Victorian cemeteries records were poorly kept or lost in bushfires. I have read that Scots church records were lost at sea by the then minister on his way back to Scotland for reasons unknown.

I have found through research more people buried here not listed and I am even sure there is many more but resources are limited so this is what I have found to date which is in the known burial section.
